Shinobi no Onna / End

MINI FACIAL SURGERY

Surgery sections

Nose and Adam's apple

In the manga "Shinobi no Onna Secretly a Woman," Eiji got Hyaluronic Acid Shots to dress up completely as a man. I, the author, was a bit curious, so I looked it up.

HYALURONIC ACID

A polysaccharide found in human skin. It was found that it lasts longer than collagen boosters, and within 6 months to a year, it dissolves into water and is 100% absorbed by the body. It is very safe, with almost no side-affects.

APPLICATION PURPOSES

* Decreases wrinkles and acne marks.
* Makes the nose higher, and the chin sharper.
* Sexier, fuller lips
* Eliminates dark under-eye circles, Etc.

Eiji also used it to create an Adam's apple, but I doubt anyone has ever done that (laugh)

SIDE EFFECTS

Because this acid is found in the human body, it is very safe. It rarely causes an allergic reaction. There is a possibility of internal bleeding, but it will heal in about 10 days. It all depends on the physician's technique and skill.

Merits of Hyaluronic Acid Shots

* No need to test for allergies * Can fix body parts without the use of a surgical knife * Finished within minutes * Very little pain (cream anesthesia) * Can put make up on immediately after it, and live life normally (no need for hospitalization) * Leaves no marks * Will go back to the original state after 6 months to a year

I had a tough time fitting the story into so few pages. It was such a pity to make this a one-shot. I like writing about hosts (gigolos), so I would like to write another sometime.

↑ Nanaya Makoyomi's (Prom Ed Rei Kai Bi Pan)

The things to check out are Renka-san's fashion and the side characters. I aimed for a fusion of shoujo manga and shounen manga.

Arabian Night Series 1

This is the very first work. So I have a lot of memories about it. I finally felt that I was able to draw "my own" manga. This was very easy to draw.

Well perhaps it was because this was my first work, but I used too much black! Looking at it now it's very hard to read. And just how many butterflies are there? (ether) I can't stand it.

The hardest part of drawing fantasy mangas is that there are no reference guides to fall back on, and I have to think of everything. If it's a story & setting there's no feeling of reality to it. It's harder than it's like about the real world and it takes a lot of time.

But I ran a step

I can't stop drawing old man either !

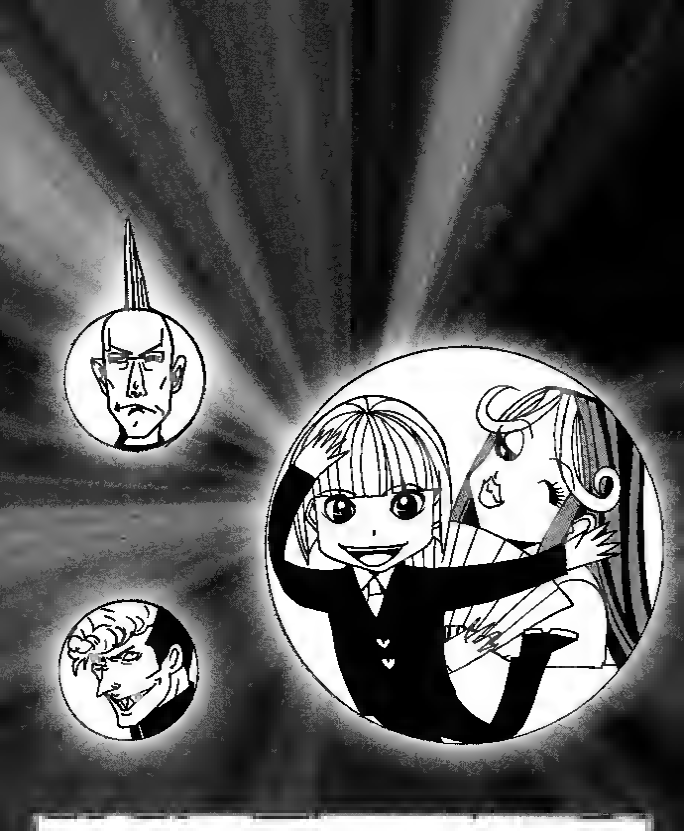
♥ The End ♥



Hi. This is Kayono.

Thank you for purchasing this volume. I've been acting strange lately. I haven't played video games in so long. I buy the game software, but don't play them. They're just collecting dust. And my stress level is rising too. Come to think of it, I think my habit to wander around is going away too. And, people have found out who I am, so now they look at me differently. That's why I had told that person not to tell. Geez, I'd been working in peace until now, but that person blabbed about me without my knowledge... Sigh. I really don't want to, but since everyone I know is going to find out sooner or later, I might as well tell them now myself?... (Yeah...)

About my Mother (Am I allowed to write about her here?)

I grew up watching only my mother. She hardly paid any attention to me even at the age when I needed it most. nevermind skinship. My father was not a proper person either, so I only remember drawing pictures all by myself.

I used to hate my mother for choosing work over her child. As a child, I vowed not to grow up living like her.

But people change very easily. A person's environment really influences his or her life. Before I knew it, I was leading the same kind of lifestyle as my mom. Everyday I locked myself up in my room to draw or write stories. I drew and drew and drew. My favorite subject at school was art as well. My friend said to me, "Do you want to become like your mother?" I denied it. Why do I have to become like that ghost of a woman?" And then my friend replied, "But I like your Bruce Lee stories. You should submit them in a manga competition."

At that time, I was in middle school. I had so much fun showing my friends the 4-column manga I drew. I knew it was crazy, but I...sent a... helluva boring and shitty 4-column manga to ...Shougekukan...(idiot) dilling

I kept it a secret, but my mom found out. It was because I wrote the address wrong, and my work got sent back. My mom was shocked to see that I was drawing manga. What a laugh! But she wasn't just any ordinary woman. She immediately ripped up my manga on the spot, hollering, "There's no way in hell that this boring and crappy manga will get chosen!" At the time, I seriously considered killing her.

But that feeling was gone by the following day. And the reason was, that when I returned from school that day, there was a brand new manga starter kit sitting on my desk. I almost. cried ✧ I will never forget that.

It was my mother who gave me the means to start becoming a manga artist.

From that day on, I grew closer to my mom. My semi-autism healed too.

And now, I work in the room next to her's. She is also a hard-working eccentric manga artist.
"I'll drew until I die grrrrrr~~~~~~~~!!"
Is what she hollers all the time. I'm amazed at her powerfulness. She and I are great rivals with a heart set to fight~~ ❤

She is the person I love and admire the most in this world.
But it's tough being a family of manga artists.

The end.

(sigh~ I'm tired.)
